The status of the claims is as follows:

Claims 4 and 9 has been cancelled; and Claims 1-3, 5-8 and 10-20 are herein addressed below.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3, 5-8, and 10-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. patent to Gueneau et al. (5,319,883) in view of Weimar (4,542,610). Gueneau et al. (5,319,883) disclose an elastomeric/plastomeric weather-strip (See figure 8 below) forming a slideway, a web (3a) having two jaws forming a channel, a retaining abutment (62) contacting a projection (64) from the flange (40c), and two parallel branches (see figure below) having sealing lips (see figure below) contacting a window pane (G) and having a root with reduced thickness. Gueneau et al. (5,319,883) fail to disclose a reinforcement element and clip formed of plastic material.

Weimar ('610) discloses the use of a reinforcement element (18) located at any position along a weather-strip (column 5, lines 19-37) as well as a strip (62) made of hard rubber, plastics and may be positioned elsewhere and even within the resilient material (6) (column 6, lines 1-10) as well as a clip (51) formed of resilient plastic material (column 5, lines 24-25). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the weather-strip of Gueneau et al. (5,319,883) with a reinforcement element and plastic clip as taught by Weimar ('610) since a reinforcement element provides extra strength and rigidity to the weather-strip along portions which need strengthened and a clip formed of plastic material provides enhanced stability over a longer period of time since a plastic clip neither corrodes nor rusts (see column 5, line 42).

The applicant's arguments have been considered but are not deemed persuasive. The applicant argues that the claims currently recite the clip to be "rigid thermoplastic material". As stated in detail above, Weimar ('610) discloses both the reinforcement of a weather strip along any portions thereof as well as providing a plastic clip to provide assistance in the mounting of the weather strip and therefore would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the weather strip of Gueneau et al. ('883) with a reinforcement and a plastic clip for the reasons discussed in detail above.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
